This is more a diagram, than a map and is not to a Surviving from the 1740s a one Kilometer long Earthwork on Derby's premier Park scale as such, it represents just over a kilometre top to Ashbourne road present day bottom. It shows the details. Don Farnsworth and myself see as significant in tracing the old road. Right click & "Save as" to copy the png picture. illed in portion erek's Folly Fo Ashbourne Surviving Pitch & Putt 18 Hole Hollow way with seasonal ponds Standing he hedge, go through and turn right and you may see the bank of the iere, carefully go down on the left side and follow the stream to a gap in oad [approximately]. Well not far off! Look carefully at the diagram map wo occasional and erratic streams appear to mark each side of the old ollow way emerging from the hedge Approximate Path of culverts SCOTLAND Claring lield Via Ashbourne Crematorium next day Markeaton Lane Valk onto the Culvert path, manhole block to your left ecome less clear, a work area on your left from when the Culvert ut the remains of a straight hedge. longside the Pitch & Putt course. daces due to vandalism ollow with the bank on your right. ork was done. or boots slippy and at times very wet. Wear good shoes The walk is lover rough ground which can be hildren. ake care in poor light, woodlands are darker ast traffic on surrounding roads, supervise est time Culvert raised bank look down into the Hollow detectorists note a beep may be safer left un-dug ¶arkeaton Park was an Army camp in WWII, metal Nash, Derby Heritage Forum Item on Derek's Folly later urns immediately right drops you into the iouse [long gone]. Continue on, a short slope nto the remains of what was a back yard of a he entrance just inside on your left is a path he small trees to your left, which I use in the oath, there is a direct slope also one through The Hollow way to the old Hall crosses your vay comes into view ust past a brick box-the fissure of the Hollow vshbourne road hollow way again et. Once down in the Hall's hollow way face a regular 'dog path' here. The right bank continues until it runs nybrids, after Culvert mainly English Bluebells are mainly Spanish and n this when winter There is no extant left bank here route About half way down things the ground became uneven in Keep to the right there up to the . has July 2012 Walk on that path DO NOT DO a bump If Nettle sting spoil your day or bruise from or Bramble THIS WALK! Retreat Bonnie' Culvert Prince Charlie's 1745 park exit

Car Park Exit special thanks serious auest

Produced with Serif DrawPlus